

tragsreihe "Homosexualität und Wissenschaft."

Berlin: Verlag Rosa Winkel, 1985. 288 pp.

Papers by fifteen authors presented at the Free University, Berlin, on law, literature, politics, and the history and future of the gay movement in Germany.

146. WARREN, CAROL (ed.). Sexuality: Encounters, Identities, and Relationships. Beverly Hills: Sage, 1976. 136 pp.

Reprints six papers on such topics as massage parlors; the interrelation between sex, situation, and strategies in the pairing ritual of homo ludens; secrecy in the lesbian world; bisexuality in men; family attitudes and Mexican male homosexuality; and meanings and process in erotic aggression.

147. WELTGE, RALPH W. (ed.). The Same Sex: An Appraisal of Homosexuality. Philadelphia: Pilgrim Press, 1969. 164 pp.

Eight of the essays in this book discuss homosexuality (esp. in relation to religion, ethics, and the law) fairly neutrally, while three reflect the point of view of the emerging gay movement.

148. ZIEGLER, ALEXANDER. Kein Recht auf Liebe: Reportagen, Aufsätze, Stücke. Frankfurt am Main: Fischer, 1978. 278 pp.

Crusading essays on pederasty, homosexuals in the work place and other subjects by a Swiss gay novelist.

F. ENCYCLOPEDIAS AND DICTIONARIES

Until quite recently general encyclopedias, whose publishers were aware that the volumes were destined for the shelves of secondary school and college libraries, discretely shunned the whole subject of homosexuality or dismissed it with a few evasive or uninformative remarks. Hence the topic was treated only in specialized reference works, which were, however, usually compiled by individuals working in the tradition of the sexual science that had emerged in the early twentieth century. Their treatments summarize what was then known (or simply believed) by the major investigators of homosexual behavior and psychology.

149. ELLIS, ALBERT, and ALBERT ABARBANEL (eds.). The Encyclopedia of Sexual Behavior. New York: Hawthorn Books, 1961. 2 vols.

Articles by various writers with a cross-cultural and international emphasis. While attitudes are often dated, the entries still convey useful information. Bibliographies; index.

150. GIESE, HANS. Wörterbuch der Sexualwissenschaft. Bonn: Instituts-Verlag, 1952. 216 pp.
Dictionary of sex research compiled by a (closeted) West German homosexual scholar.
151. HAIRE, NORMAN (ed.). The Encyclopedia of Sexual Knowledge. New York: Coward McCann, 1934. 636 pp.
Based in large measure on material assembled in France by "Dr. Costler" (Arthur Koestler). Haire, an Australian physician and leader of the sex reform movement in the interwar period, was homosexual.
152. HEGELER, INGE, and STEN HEGELER. An ABZ of Love. New York: Medical Press of New York, 1963. 288 pp.
Translation of a Danish work. About 600 entries, with 120 drawings; emphasizes sexual techniques.
153. MARCUSE, MAX (ed.). Handwörterbuch der Sexualwissenschaft. Bonn: A. Marcuse und E. Weber, 1923. 481 pp.
An encyclopedic dictionary fusing sexological and psychiatric viewpoints. Contains several outstanding articles by Hans Licht (Paul Brandt).
154. ROBINSON, VICTOR (ed.). Encyclopaedia Sexualis: A Comprehensive Encyclopaedia-Dictionary of the Sexual Sciences. New York: Digwall-Rock, 1936. 819 pp.
Reflects European sex research of the pre-1933 period, though many articles are written by Americans. In addition to the usual entries, see "Elmira Reformatory, Sex in," "Hirschfeld, Magnus," and "Homosexual Twins."
155. SANTA VICCA, EDMUND F. The Treatment of Homosexuality in Current Encyclopedias. Ann Arbor: University of Michigan, 1977. 323 pp. (unpublished dissertation).
Treats mainly general encyclopedias, rather than specialized ones.

G. LIBRARIES AND ARCHIVES

The emergence of gay and lesbian studies has posed special problems for cataloguing and collection of materials, some of which can be best solved in the special gay and lesbian archives. As regards the profession, anecdotal evidence suggests that a high proportion of male librarians are homosexual, but the actual incidence and its sociopsychological grounding have not been elucidated.

156. BERMAN, SANFORD. The Joy of Cataloging. Phoenix: Oryx Press, 1980. 242 pp.